

Digital Workplace Choices: Preparing for the 2020 Workplace

Part One

	Introduction	5
1	Key messages	6
2	Drivers for change	7
	2.1 Introduction	7
	2.2 Mixing work and home	7
	2.3 New working styles, new working rules	8
	2.4 "I'm a Mac"	8
	2.5 From baby boomers to echo boomers	9
3	Key findings: HR and marketing professionals	10
	3.1 Cross-functional collaboration between IT and HR	10
	3.2 Having the right policies for usage	11
	3.3 Towards a new way of working	13
	3.4 Marketing, social media and the IT department	14
	3.5 Rate of activity increasing	15
4	Severn Trent Water transforms its working environment	16
	4.1 Introduction	16
	4.2 New offices, new working practices	16
	4.3 From 'fat' to 'thin'	17
	4.4 Making it work	17
5	The changing public sector digital workplace	18
	5.1 Improving the desktop	18
	5.2 Balancing standardisation with the need for flexibility	18
	5.3 Taking advantage of social media
	Publication date: July 2010	19

6	Preparing for the 2020 workplace	21
6.1	What will the workplace be like in 2020?	21
6.2	Workplace social responsibility	22
6.3	What are the main technology implications?	22

Part Two

7	Enterprise scenarios	23
7.1	Scenario A – Remaining office-based, but facing desktop upgrade	23
7.2	Scenario B – Adopting new technology devices	24
7.3	Scenario C – Supporting new workplace practices	25
7.4	Scenario D – Enabling the virtual workforce	26
8	Workforce styles	28
8.1	Action-oriented workforce	28
8.2	People-oriented workforce	29
8.3	Ideas-oriented workforce	30
8.4	Process-oriented workforce	31
9	Vendor insights	32
9.1	Atos Origin	32
9.2	BT Global Services	32
9.3	CSC	33
9.4	Dell	34
9.5	Fujitsu Services	35
9.7	Getronics	36
9.6	HP Enterprise Services	37
9.8	IBM Global Services	38
9.9	Logica	39
9.10	Unisys	40

Publication date: July 2010